Like other gifted girls in '99
I learned to proof, plot and calculate so if ever I should need to find derivatives, I'll do just great.

I learned the way to root a polynomial
and how to slope the straightest line.
The things I loved weren't valuable,
Home ec—a waste of time.

The standard quadratic equation:
 $aX^2 + bX + c$
should have been a real solution,
but always solved zero for me.
